

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A necklace to which interchangeable entertaining objects can be attached to entertain infants and young children while being held by a person, allowing the person to focus on other tasks. The necklace may have a clip, clasp or similar device to which the interchangeable entertaining objects are attached. The interchangeable entertaining objects may be equipped with a suitable mounting system, such as a pierced hole, for attachment to the clip, clasp or similar device. The objects may be interchangeable, and multiple objects may be attached simultaneously. The objects may be made of any desired decorative appearance and materials.